History of the Eleventh Kentucky Volunteer Infantry Regiment: Union Army
by
William Michael Wilson

One of the first groups of men to answer the call to arms in Kentucky at the onset of the Civil War was the 11th Kentucky Volunteer Infantry Regiment. The regiment's organizer was Bowling Green's Colonel Pierce Butler Hawkins. He formed the organization from the Green River counties of Warren, Muhlenberg, Butler, and Edmonson. Together with Lt. Colonel Love and Major E.H. Mottley, Hawkins led the regiment in nearly all of the Western engagements, including the campaigns in northern Alabama and middle Tennessee, the battles of Shiloh, Stone's River, Perryville, and Atlanta, and the siege of Knoxville. The regiment suffered a total of 264 casualties; 2 officers and 45 enlisted men were killed in battle; disease claimed 3 officers and 214 enlisted men. The book includes a large section including information culled from the men's service records.

This 400-page, hard-bound book, with index is filled with maps and photographs and is available for $40. To ship first class please include an additional $2.50 per volume.
